Ballard Creek Centenarians Recognized by Governor

Mildred Brendeland and Casper "Cap" Torkelson were among 26 centenarians honored at a luncheon in October at the Iowa State Historical building. They each received a certificate signed by Governor Terry Brandstad and an opportunity for a photograph with the Governor and Lieutenant Governor Kim Reynolds. Mildred and Cap are not the only centenarians living in a Madrid Home Community. At age 104, Maylo Nervig is the oldest and lives at the Madrid Home.

In talking with these elders, it is clear that they have seen incredible changes in the world during their life time. In 1907, when Maylo was born, Theodore Roosevelt was president, congressional salaries were $7500 and women had not yet won the right to vote. They experienced first-hand the effects of World Wars I and II, the Great Depression, and the Civil Rights movement. Men born in 1912 could expect to live to age 48 and women until age 51. They saw farming done with horses, electricity and telephone lines run to private homes, silent movies and the first televisions.

Centenarians are one of the most rapidly growing age groups. In November of 2009 there were 676 centenarians living in Iowa. Researchers from the New England Centenarian Study have learned that the majority are women and many are exceptionally healthy. The study is working to discover predictors of living to 100 and have identified common characteristics of centenarians. Their discoveries include the fact that few centenarians are obese and few smoke substantially. Many bore children when they were older than 40 and at least half have close relatives who also achieved a very old age. The study has even developed a Living to 100 Life Expectancy Calculator that can be accessed at www.livingto100.com!

In addition to Maylo, Mildred, and Cap, there are more than 50 elders over the age of 90 who live in one of the Madrid Home Communities. Many are willing and able to share their life lessons when they know someone is willing to listen. We hope readers will accept our invitation to stop in and visit.

Madrid Home Communities Centenarians Lead Remarkable Lives

Maylo Nervig

At the age of 104, Maylo Nervig holds the honor of being the oldest Madrid Home Communities resident. Maylo was one of seven children, three boys and four girls. Her father was the manager of the Creamery in Slater, which was a major employer in town and shipped its butter as far away as New York. She recalls that other businesses in town included two grocery stores and a butcher. As a child, her mother would send Maylo to the butcher with 25 cents, which was enough to purchase a meal's worth of meat for the whole family! They were fortunate to own a nice radio and Maylo recalls classmates from her high school civics class coming to her house to listen to President Harding's inaugural address.

Church involvement was an important part of life for her family. They attended the Methodist church in Slater where her father was the Sunday school superintendent. Maylo recalls that every Sunday after they were dressed for church, she and her brothers and sisters would line up and her father would shine their shoes. Her Christian faith has continued to be very important to Maylo and she can often be found studying her Bible or devotional materials.

Perhaps her wisdom can be seen most clearly in her response when asked what advice she would give to a young person starting out on their own. She says young people have to make decisions that are right for them, and kindly explains that they don't usually want to hear a lot of advice from others.

Mildred Brendeland

One of Mildred Brendeland's earliest memories is of being in the barn with her father. As the only child until age six, she recalls that she was the “apple of his eye.” When she was four she helped raise a colt who had lost her mother, feeding the colt with a bottle. The colt became a pet and Mildred decided one day that she wanted to ride her. She brought the horse over by the corn crib and used the slats to climb up on her back. Mildred held on to her mane and rode her around the yard. Her mother was very shocked when she finally learned that her 4-year old had broke the horse and was riding her bareback! If anyone wonders about the truth of the story, Mildred has the photograph to prove it!

Mildred or her mother made all of her clothes throughout her school years. She wore her first store bought dress to her Junior/Senior banquet (similar to today's prom). At a time when corn was 9 cents a bushel, her father sold a wagon load of corn to buy the special dress for $19.90. Mildred still has the dress, along with a dress that she knit 70 years ago, which she still wears.

The Great Depression

had a significant impact on Mildred. Corn prices were low and her father lost their farm after a year of drought with no crop. Although she had a scholarship for a semester of college, she had no way to pay for or borrow money after that and was unable to continue. She remembers “pounding the streets” in shoes that had holes in the soles, and the discouragement of potential employers not even taking her application because she had no experience. She eventually landed a job as a nanny for a wealthy family in Des Moines. This experience was a very positive one and provided her with an education in child care and fine entertaining.

Graduates of the Kelley school will remember that Mildred was the school cook for many years. At first, Mildred worked alone with the help of one of the older children to serve meals. She prepared meals, from scratch, for 120 students plus staff.

Cinnamon rolls and chili was one of the children’s favorite meals and she always made enough so everyone could have all be pleasant, to always tell the truth, and if she had a problem tell the person who needed to know, not everyone else.

The lessons she learned during the depression are evident in the advice she would give the generation just they wanted. Not only did she do all of the cooking, she was responsible for cleaning the cafeteria and washing all of the dishes by hand.

The best advice Mildred ever received was from her father who told her to do a good job no matter what it was. He also advised her to starting on their own. It includes learning the difference between a need and a want. “Start simple. Don’t put things on credit cards. Buy as you can afford it.” In today’s economy, her statement, “Credit cards have ruined this nation,” are sure to resonate with many Americans.

Cap Torkelson

Cap grew up on a farm near Ames. His first memory is of himself and his brother riding in a pony cart. They were good friends with a neighbor boy and all had free run of each other’s house. At the age of 10, Cap remembers driving the wagon that hauled the bundles of oats to the thrashing machine. Usually neighbors from 3 farms would work together during thrashing, with his mother going to help the neighborhood women cook for the workers.

One of the biggest changes Cap has experienced is the modernization of farming methods. Cap farmed for several years and remembers cultivating corn using a team of horses and a single row cultivator. With a good team, they could cultivate about 20 acres in a day. When he wasn’t able to make a large enough income to purchase 2-row equipment, Cap decided to get out of farming. He and his wife, Ruth, went to work for Hach Chemical Company. At the time, the now worldwide corporation was just getting started in Ames, Iowa. Cap worked for owners Clifford and Kitty Hach helping with a variety of tasks wherever he was needed. The best advice Cap has ever received? “Buy stock in Hach Chemical!”

After retiring in 1976, Cap pursued several hobbies including playing

“Stay active as long as you are able.”

pool, bowling, and gardening. Visitors to Ballard Creek can see the fruits of his labor in the beautiful gardens on the grounds there. Cap still gardens with the help of a volunteer, and continued to bowl until last year when he was 99. At that time he could still throw the ball, but his painful knees made getting up to the line too difficult! Not surprisingly, Caps best advice to others is to “Stay active as long as you are able.”

A Message from Keith Kudej, President/CEO

In our fast paced, youth oriented culture where we communicate via text messages, Facebook, and Twitter it is easy to overlook one of our most valuable resources: our elders. If experience is the best teacher there is a goldmine in the 305 years of knowledge possessed by the three centenarians featured in these pages. At the time of this writing, there are 14 individuals age 95 or older living in one of the Madrid Home Communities. That's over 1300 years of experience! Americans who are wondering how to make ends meet during these difficult economic times might find many practical ideas from those who lost a farm or couldn't get work during the Great Depression of the 1930's. The popularity of living a "green" lifestyle by reusing and recycling is nothing new to many of our elders, who learned early on how to make do with what they had.

Our busy lifestyles sometimes make us forget how important it is to slow down and listen to what our parents and grandparents have to say. They have much to teach us, but it's up to us to start the conversation, listen and let them know we are genuinely interested. The opportunity I have to learn from and be of service to residents is the most rewarding aspect of my work. At the same time, being part of a large network that includes residents, faith communities, family members, employees, volunteers and donors is encouraging. It reminds me that we can accomplish great things when we work together. Thank you to everyone who contributes their prayers, time, talents, and treasures towards our mission to follow Christ's example of humble service.

Madrid Home Receives Grant From the Alma Pedretti Charitable Foundation

Madrid Home Communities is pleased to announce that it has received an award of $7000.00 from the Alma Pedretti Charitable Foundation. These funds will be used to create a new exit, patio, and paved access to the walking trail from the Garden Court Apartment community room. Garden Court residents have enjoyed using the new walking trail around the north and west sides of the Madrid

Home campus, but lacked convenient access to the outdoors and walking trail from their part of the building. For some, the lengthy walk to reach the trail prevented them from using it. This project is part of a larger effort to create enhanced outdoor spaces for residents that are accessible, interesting, and encourage residents and their guests to enjoy the many health benefits of spending time outside.

Friends Project Looks Indoors in 2012

After a two year focus on outdoor spaces, Friends of Madrid Home Communities is turning its attention indoors. Interesting research has been done by Lois J. Cutler and Rosalie A. Kane that shows how a resident's environment affects their quality of life in either positive or negative ways. For example, the environment can have an effect on residents' relationships with their families. If family members find comfortable and private places to spend time with their loved ones when they visit, they are more likely to stay longer and visit more frequently. Features like windows with a view, flowers and plants, and pleasant odors provide enjoyment, another quality of life measure. When a person has health or cognitive challenges, a comfortable and supportive environment is even more important because the person has less ability to adapt to things like a chair that's too low or poor lighting. The first step in this project for 2012 will be to evaluate where the greatest needs are and begin developing a plan. Friends fund raising events in the next year will be dedicated to updating the common areas at each campus.

Sunday Brunch at the Cedars

The public is invited to join Cedars residents for brunch from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. on the following Sundays:

Leonard Good Trust Supports Technology Project

The Madrid Home is the grateful recipient of a grant of $24,825 from the Leonard Good Trust in support of its “Computers for Culture Change” project. Once it is fully implemented, this technology is expected to improve the quality of care by helping caregivers integrate and use resident's medical information and individual preferences to personalize their care. It will also improve safety by providing prompts to staff about key care tasks, give alerts about potential safety problems, and decrease the risk of adverse medication events.

THANK YOU to EVERYONE Who Helped Make the Holiday Celebration at Madrid Home Communities Joyful!

Friends 2011 Project Review

Over the past two years the Friends of Madrid Home Communities has worked to raise funds to improve the outdoor areas for residents use at all three campuses. Beginning with the Fall Bazaar and Bake Sale in 2009, Friends events have raised over $15,000 that has been directed towards a number of projects at all three campuses. Additional gifts and memorials have brought the grand total to over $35,000! Work will continue on this project into the next year and will include adding an exit and walkways to the trail from the Garden Court apartments, building a picnic shelter, and planting the newly built terrace outside Garden Court apartments. We deeply appreciate the support given to these projects spaces is vital to residents' well-being, and a growing part of how we accomplish our mission. Having accessible and interesting outdoor

Mentors Efforts Fund New TV's for Madrid Home

Scott Armstrong, April Elsberry, Meagan Hidlebaugh, Brenda Haberer, and Kathy Berg were among the group of Madrid Home Mentors who raised money for new TV's in Madrid Home lounges. Their efforts included a Labor Day Raffle, Christmas Tree Silent Auction, and pop can redemption. The fact that mentors know residents they care for very well gives them an important perspective and the ability to identify needs that aren't apparent to others.

Madrid Students Build Cedar Benches For Madrid Home
